Statement 6 Form 990-EZ, Part III Organization's Primary Exempt Purpose

Wildflowers Institute, a social innovation and application lab, is dedicated to helping vulnerable ethnic, indigenous, and racial populations. The Institute's mission is to understand how communities work and to help them succeed. Wildflowers was founded in 1979 on the belief that the most powerful parts of the community go unrecognized. One of the most important discoveries we have made during the past ten years has been the power of informal capital. We have developed a process of discovering these often-invisible ways that things are accomplished in a community. This informal capital includes: the leaders who quietly make change, the unofficial ways people are organized, the coping mechanisms that people rely on in everyday life, and the shared activities organized around art, common endeavors, spirituality and culture that build relationships.

Our overall approach is to catalyze this informal capital in communities and work with policy makers, philanthropists, academics, and social activists to strengthen it. While many define community by geographical boundaries, Wildflowers uses an established sociological definition: a complex system of friendship and kinship networks and formal and informal associational ties.

Statement 7 Form 990-EZ, Part III, Line 28 Statement of Program Service Accomplishments

The work of Wildflowers Institute in 2009 was as follows:

Leadership Training: Wildflowers has created a fellowship program and each year we train community leaders to map the informal capital of community, that is, the identification of important activities, relationships and people. Since 1999, Wildflowers has selected thirty-seven fellows across ten different communities for training in our patented process and four-stage research methodology so that they can guide interested outsiders to the informal capital (see our past paper, "Making Visible the Invisible Power of Community," for our detailed methodology on our website: www.wildflowers.org/monograph.html). We selected fellows using four

- they are longtime residents,
- they are comfortable dealing with outsiders,
- they perform community work on a volunteer basis, and
- they are trusted by both the formal and informal groups because of their track record of getting the community what it needs.

Community Studies: Two teams of institute fellows undertook a study to explore the role of spirituality in weaving the fabric of community. One of the studies focused on the Lao Iu Mien community and the other on the Red Wolf Band.
